In this issue

- Chancellor's remarks
- Faculty Council approves
- Research Administration

UNCFSA
Faculty Council

FFA Newsletter
Fall & Winter 2021-22

Election results for 2022-2023

Congratulations to the following faculty members who have been elected to serve as president-elect, leading to one year each as president, president-elect, and immediate past president, beginning in one year with an initial term of three years. Thanks to all who accepted nominations and to those who stood for election, but were selling long-lost relatives and unable to be contacted. Thanks also to the outgoing chairs and vice chairs who have agreed to continue in office for one more year because of the COVID hiatus in spring elections. Thanks to all who participated in the elections and to those who agreed to serve on committees.

Sara Ann Knaus
President-Elect
Associate Professor of Clinical Medicine
Dept. of Family Medicine & Epidemiology

- Population Health
- Medical Ethics
- Technology in Medicine

Tim Lee Carter
Vice Chair-Elect
Associate Professor of Biology
Dept. of Biology

- Ecology
- Evolutionary Biology
- Conservation Biology

Tim Lee Carter (left) and Sara Ann Knaus (right)

Pete Andrews takes the reins

Pete Andrews, Associate Professor of Biology, takes over as Faculty Council chair from Jim Dalton, who has served two successive terms. Pete is Primary Preceptor of Public Health Sciences undergraduate students and teaches courses in Ecology and Evolutionary Biology. Pete's research focuses on the ecology of the Galapagos Islands and the effects of the COVID lockdowns on the Galapagos. Pete's CV lists 72 books, etc. He was the first original member of the Faculty Council representing the Department of Public Health Sciences, and has served on almost every committee. He has served as president of the Faculty Council twice, once in 2005 and once in 2009. He has served as president-elect and chair of the department of public policy (when Public Health Sciences was part of the School of Medicine) and as the Distinguished Professor of the Year for the College of Arts and Sciences. Pete's hobbies are hiking and bicycling, and he is looking forward to being

Pete Andrews (left) and Jim Dalton (right) at the Faculty Council meeting

From the incoming president ...

Greetings! I am honored to serve as president-elect, leading to a term as president of the Faculty Council. Thanks to Jim Dalton for his leadership during the COVID crisis and for his service as Public Policy Group for the Faculty. Thanks also to the Nominating Committee for their thoughtful consideration of candidates. Thanks to the Faculty Council for their support and to the Council's officers for their leadership during the past year. We are proud of our Council's accomplishments during the past year, including the creation of the Research Administration Committee, the Faculty Council Awards Committee, and the Faculty Council Ethics Committee, and the revitalization of the Faculty Council Committee on Committees. We look forward to working with our colleagues in the Administration and elsewhere on campus to promote faculty governance and contract review, promote faculty development, promote research and scholarship, and promote collegiality and community. We look forward to working with our colleagues in the Administration and elsewhere on campus to promote faculty development, promote research and scholarship, promote collegiality and community, promote faculty governance and contract review,